

WYOMING ANNUAL COMPLIANCE REPORT FOR CALENDAR YEAR 2002

I. Introduction

Section 1414(c)(3)(A)(I) of the amended Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA) requires States to prepare and make available to the public an annual report on violations of the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations by public water systems in the State by July 1 of each year. This includes violations pertaining to: 1) maximum contaminant levels, 2) treatment requirements, 3) variances and exemptions, and 4) monitoring requirements defined to be significant by the Administrator after consultation with the states.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 8 has primary enforcement authority in the State of Wyoming and thus prepared this annual compliance report. This report summarizes and identifies public water systems in the State of Wyoming that have been identified as having violations in categories 1 through 4 above during the calendar year 2002.

II. Availability of 2002 Wyoming Annual Compliance Report

Copies of this Annual Compliance Report can be obtained by calling EPA Region 8's Environmental Information Service Center at 303-312-6312 or 800-227-8917 or by e-mail at r8eisc@epa.gov. This report is also posted on EPA Region 8's web site at <http://www.epa.gov/region08/water/dwhome/wycon/wycon.html>

III. Violations Tables

The appendices are sorted by: 1) rule, 2) violation type and 3) PWS identification number. Appendix A contains data for those systems that had Monitoring and Reporting violations for the total coliform rule (TCR) during the calendar year 2002.

Appendix B contains data for those systems that had total coliform rule maximum contaminant level (TCR MCL), surface water treatment rule (SWTR), inorganic contaminants (IOC), volatile organic contaminants (VOC), synthetic organic contaminants (SOC), nitrates (NO₃), lead and copper (PbCu), radionuclides (rads) and Consumer Confidence Report (CCR) violations during the calendar year 2002.

IV. Variances and Exemptions

During calendar year 2002, EPA Region 8 did not allow variances or exemptions to any MCL or monitoring requirement for public water systems in the State of Wyoming.

V. Findings and Conclusions

Bacteriological Contaminants

- There were a total of 178 monitoring/reporting violations of the total coliform rule (TCR) by 130 public water systems out of a total of approximately 736 public water systems in the State of Wyoming. Of these water systems that were in violation, 69 have since returned to compliance (RTC) (see Appendix A).
- There were a total of 55 monthly maximum contaminant level (MCL) violations of the total coliform rule by 40 public water systems. Of these water systems that were in violation, 26 have returned to compliance (see Appendix B).
- In addition, there were 3 acute maximum contaminant level violations of the total coliform rule by 3 public water systems. Of these water systems that were in violation, all of them have returned to compliance (see Appendix B).

Surface Water Treatment Rule

- There were no treatment technique or failure to filter violations of the surface water treatment rule (SWTR) out of the 67 public water systems in the State of Wyoming that have a surface water source or that have been determined to be ground water under the influence of surface water (see Appendix B).
- There were 2 reporting violations of the surface water treatment rule. Of these water systems that were in violation, all of them have returned to compliance (see Appendix B).

Inorganic Contaminants other than Nitrate

- There were no public water systems with monitoring/reporting violations for inorganic contaminants (IOC) out of a total of approximately 310 public water systems covered by the rule. There were no MCL violations reported for inorganic contaminants during the calendar year 2002.

Volatile Organic Contaminants

- There were 4 public water systems with monitoring/reporting violations for volatile organic contaminants (VOC) out of a total of approximately 310 public water systems covered by the rule. Each time a system failed to monitor, it could incur up to 21 violations for the individual contaminants covered by the rule. Of these water systems that were in violation, 2 have returned to compliance. There were no MCL violations reported for volatile organic contaminants during the calendar year 2002.

Synthetic Organic Contaminants

- There were no public water system with monitoring/reporting violations for synthetic organic contaminants (SOC) out of a total of approximately 310 public water systems covered by the rule. Each time a system failed to monitor, it could incur up to 26 violations for the individual contaminants covered by the rule. There were no MCL violations reported for synthetic organic contaminants during the calendar year 2002.

Nitrate

- There were 49 failure to monitor violations for nitrate, out of a total of approximately 647 public water systems in the State of Wyoming covered by the rule. Twenty-five of these violations have since returned to compliance. There were no public water systems with nitrate MCL violations reported.

Lead and Copper Rule

- There were 51 public water systems with failure to monitor/report violations for lead and copper (PbCu) out of a total of approximately 366 public water systems covered by the rule. Thirty-one of these violations have since returned to compliance. All of the systems that returned to compliance in 2002 were failure to monitor violations for 2001, therefore there are only 20 new violations in 2002.

Radionuclides

- There were 26 public water systems with failure to monitor/report violations for radionuclides (Rad) out of a total of approximately 228 public water systems covered by the rule. Nineteen of these systems have since returned to compliance. There was one system with an MCL violation.

Consumer Confidence Report

- There were no public water systems that did not submit their 2001 Consumer Confidence Reports (CCR) out of a total of 280 systems in the State of Wyoming that are required to report.

VI. Innovative Enforcement Approaches

Among other innovative enforcement actions, EPA Region 8 has worked with the Town of Opal to address its long-standing fluoride problem. The Town of Opal has been under an Administrative Order since 1992 for exceeding the fluoride MCL. After extensive studies, testing and evaluation, EPA and the Town have resolved this issue through a novel approach using Point of Use (POU) units. The Town will install POUs in each home and in its Town park to treat the water in order to meet regulatory requirements. EPA established innovative operational, maintenance and monitoring requirements for the Town that are specifically designed for the decentralized treatment approach.

VI. 2002 Annual Compliance Report Summary

- A total of 369 SDWA rule violations committed by public water systems in the State of Wyoming, during calendar year 2002.

2002 SDWA VIOLATIONS SUMMARY TABLE
